

Chris Krueger Bio

Chris Krueger, originally from Wilmington, Delaware, is a Class A PGA Certified Instructor.

Chris was a four year collegiate golfer and graduated from Old Dominion University with a business management degree. While at college, Chris won the Delaware Open professional event as an amateur, as well as the Delaware Amateur Championship the following year. Chris turned professional in 1997 and moved to West Palm Beach , Florida working at places such as PGA National Resort, The Everglades Club in Palm Beach, and spent time working at the world renown Jim Mclean Golf School at the Doral Resort and Spa in Miami, Fl. Chris has been in the golf business for 10 years, has taken lessons and worked with numerous top 100 teachers in the country. Some of the teachers he has taken lessons with include Martin Hall, 2010 teacher of the year, Todd Anderson, and Mike Bender, the current teacher of Zach Johnson, former Masters champion. While at the Jim Mclean Golf School, Chris worked with over 20 instructors at the school, as well as Jim Mclean. He has worked at Woodmont Country Club in Rockville, Md. While at Woodmont, Chris was able to observe the teaching of the top instructor in the Mid Atlantic Section, Wayne DeFrancesco. Currently, this is Chris's fourth season at Kings Creek Country Club.